The Plautine Play

Come one, come all to the hottest new play in town! Latin V seniors Alex “Marius” Bakalov, Philip “Philippus” Cho, Japneet “Eumachia” Kaur, Vivian “Delia” Xue, and junior Sydney “Nausicaa” Buhler performed the play Senex Avarus by the Roman comedy writer Plautus.

Some background from Cho: “Titus Maccius Plautus was born in Sarsina in 254 BC and he wrote many many many plays. Varro attributes 21 to him, but there are many more that are fragmented and that we only have titles of.”

The story follows the youth Lyconides, who is in love with the maiden Phaedra. Euclio, Phaedra’s greedy old dad, tasks his slave Staphyla with hiding some of his gold, but things go awry when Lyconides’s slave, Strobilus, steals it—misunderstandings ensue. All in all, the recipe for a classic comedy.

Have some free time on your hands this summer? Consider writing an article or opinion piece for the Scribe! Doing anything remotely Latin related? Film a vlog. Write some Latin poetry. Get a head start on Modern Myth for convention. I may not be auctor again next year, but my wish is for more student submissions to be part of the Scribe in the future!

Cover: A group of seniors decked out in Roman costume lead student around the school on the Ides of March.

National Latin Exam: In March, every level of Latin gathered to take the NLE, putting all we've learned to the test. We came, we saw, we conquered.

Certamen: TJ has been crowned State Champions this year after a highly successful State Finals! Congrats to all those who competed.

- Novice (2nd) - Eleri Healy, Emery Mize, Isha Stauber, Sophia Wang
- Intermediate (1st) - Caden Cosgrove, James Fleming, Tristan Raffo, Vyaas Raj, Andrew Tramel
- Advanced A (1st) - Alex Bakalov, Philip Cho, Sarah Trainer, Vivian Xue

iNite: Led by junior Annie "Carmina" Chiu, LHS put on a masterful performance of the myth of Orpheus & Eurydice for this year's iNite. One might even say that the performance dazzled the audience...."wide awake."

Rome's Birthday: Jump over the walls of Rome! Channel your inner Aeneas and run a three-legged race with someone on your back (don't worry, you don't have to worry about leaving your wife behind)! Destroy the Trojan horse! Throw a boulder better than Turnus's attempt!

Impromptu Art Buddies Party: During our final buddy party of the year, Latin buddies came together in the spirit of competition to create their best art on the theme of "Dynamic Duos." The result was some truly awe-inspiring art (as you can see below).

In-House Certamen: Who has the garlic? As per usual, In-House Certamen proved to be total chaotic fun, filled with ridiculous questions and even more ridiculous answers. The decibel level was through the roof. Shout-out to the Atri for their epic win.

Latin Awards Ceremony: We gathered on May 22 to celebrate the achievements of those who have taken tests such as the NLE, Medusa Myth Exam, and CAV and received recognition. Congrats to all, and keep on studying!

J-Day: Sticking to tradition, our J-day booth sold flower crowns and Italian ice, supplying the general TJ community with their annual dose of Roman flavor and flair. 😊

Ludi Romani: On May 30th, grade levels face off in fierce battles of sport. By the time this issue is released, we will know who won, but for now, I have no clue...let the battle rage!

Senior Send-off: One final get-together for the seniors, one final trip down memory lane. ❤️

Final letter from the editor

I would like to start by thanking the numerous people who I’ve pestered throughout this year: thank you Suzie “Alma” Han for posting Myth Madness updates and navigating Instagram on my behalf; thank you Alex “Marius” Baklava for being my informant on call 24/7; thank you to the artifices (and other select individuals) for all the photos; a huge thank you to Magistra Donohue for all her support; and thank you to all you readers for reading! I hope this year’s issues of the Scribe have left you with some memories, some laughs, and a whole lotta love for Latin and our TJ Latin community.

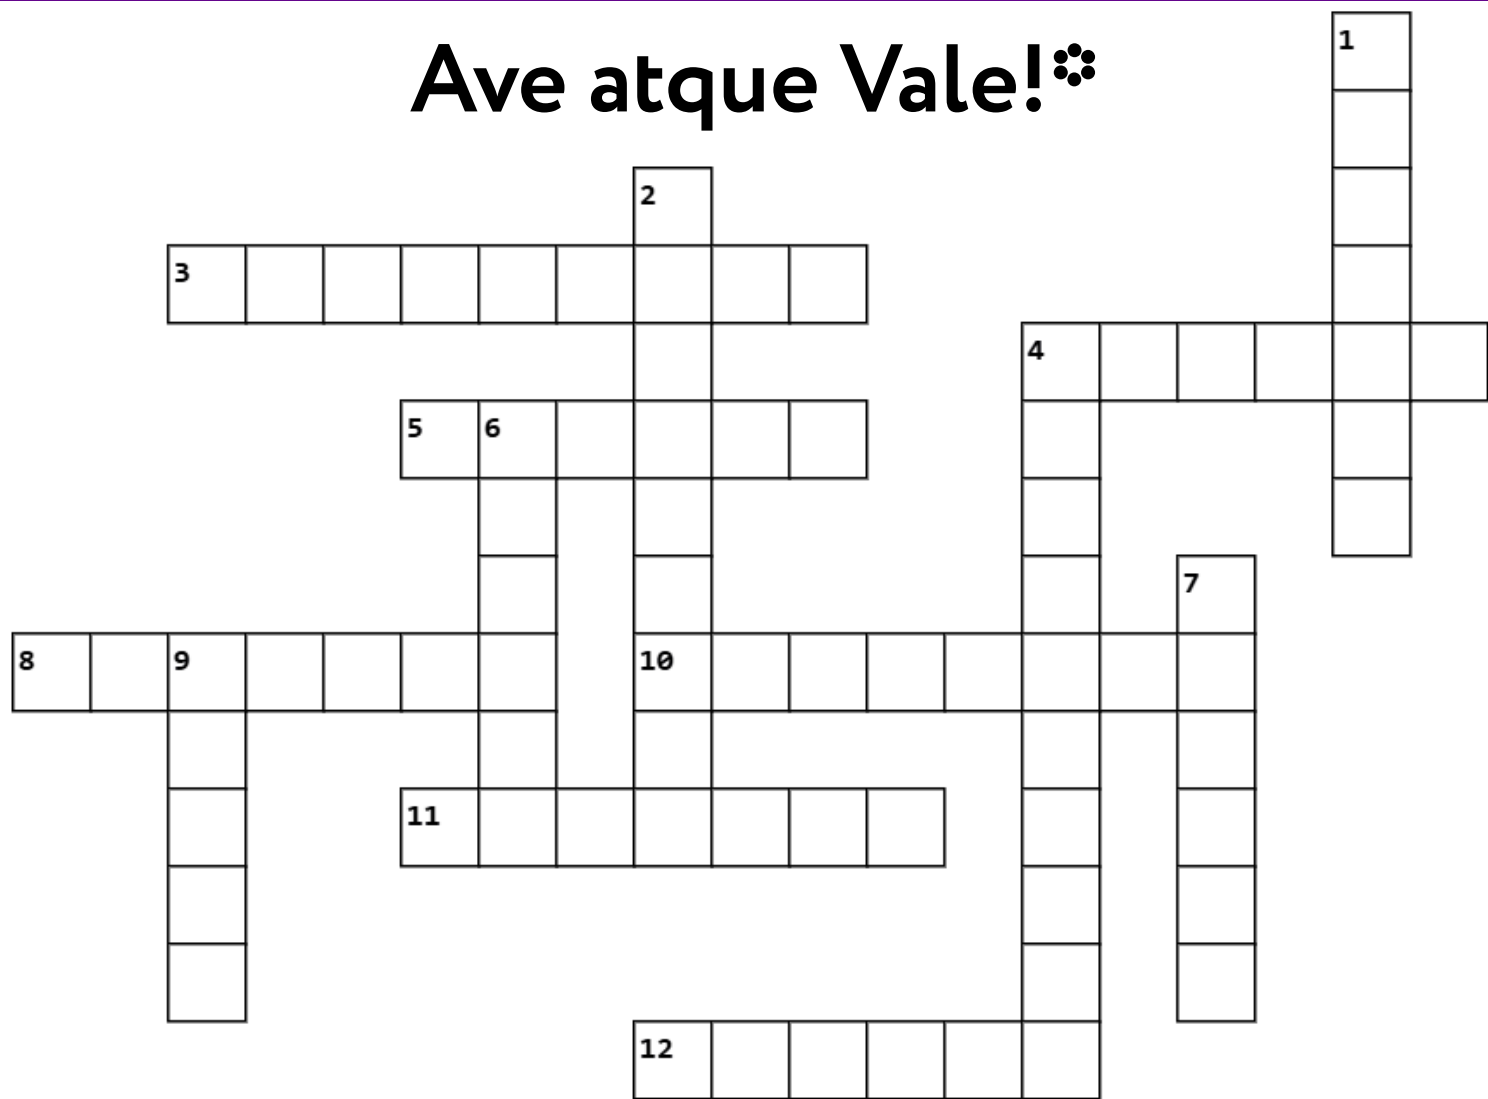

Well, was that enough learning for this year? In the blink of an eye, the year has come to an end, and with that we say “vale” to our class of graduating seniors. Eheu! But also, eugepae to them as they move on to bigger, better things! It is strange though, to imagine what Latin will be like without them. Good thing we have all summer to recalibrate and prepare for the new era: one where us silly rising seniors are the oldest ones here—yikes. Enjoy your break, and I’ll see you again next year for more learning (and shenanigans).

Vale (for now),

Sophia “Eris” Tzvetanov (2024–2025 LHS Auctor)

Ave atque Vale!❄
